INQUEST OVER A LUNATIC. He Died from the Effects of a Fall-Condition of the Jatt.

dition of the Jatt.

An inquest was held at the county courthouse yesterday morning by 'Squire Frischkern over the remains of George Reed, a colored lunatic, who died in the Heurico jail friday afternoon. The jury, after fully investigating the matter, rendered a verdict saying that the deceased came to his death from injuries received by falling down the steps of the jail. This was the third person who had died in the prison in the past week.

A Disease a reporter visited the jail yesterday and was taken through the place by the jailer. The prison has four cells, only two of which have fires therein. In one of these cells is the negro girl, Martha Jones, who broke out of the prison twice and is now clasined. The other apartment is occupied by thirteen prisoners. Consequently there are no accommodations for lunatics and sick prisoners. The walls around the building are not sufficiently strong to keep a child in prison. The morter between the bricks has been standing so long that all of its adhesion properties have been destroyed, and the enclosure is nothing more than the bricks laid on sand. The prisoners who recently broke juil went to the walls, and with a small piece of tin succeeded in cutting through two of them in a very short while. The fault cannot be iaid on the Sheriff nor his deputies.

About the middle of this month there will be two additional troops assigned to the First Regiment. This will only leave vacancies for two more companies when the full complement allowed by law will have been obtained. One of the new troops will be formed in Richmond, as has already been stated, while the other will be organized in Albemarie county. Several other counties contemplate forming new companies.

In a few minutes the tog lifted sufficienty for hun to see the ship's masts over the hills. He at once started with his crew and apparatus, thinking the ship was near enough to shore to enable him to shoot a line over her, but on arrival he found the distance two great. He then returned to the station and got the surf-boat and an additional shot-line. On rearrival at the scene of the wreck the station crew placed their gun and apparatus and fired a six-ounce charge with a No. 4 line, which parted about twenty yards short of the ship. They hauled in and fired again, this time with more elevation, and got the line across the ship, but the sailors pulled the small line across a wire stay and it parted. They again loaded and fired four shots, each falling short. Finding the ship could not be reached with a shot-line, they launched the surf-boat as a last resort, but owing to the roughness of the sea and the aunched the surf-boat as a last resort, but owing to the roughness of the sea and the strength of the current the boat soon filled. After a desperate struggle the drenched life-savers managed to reach the shore. Then they baled out the water and made another attempt, but with the same unfortunate result as before. This time the boat drifted well down the beach, and the crew came near losing their lives. As it was now growing dark, the sea running over the beach, and the lite-saving crew completely exhausted, drenched and half famished, nothing more could be done until the next morning. A watch was left on the beach, a fire made back up on a hill, and the crew, save the watch, returned to the station.

ANOTHER AND A SUCCESSFUL EFFORT.

ANOTHER AND A SUCCESSFUL REPORT. ANOTHER AND A SUCCESSFUL EFFORT.

At 3 A. M. on the morning of the 24th the station crew took a dry shot-line and started for the ship. At dayight they signailed her to look out for a line. The tide had now fallen somewhat, and in order to get the shortest possible range the Lyle gun was placed in the horse-cart and securely lashed and run down into the surf. They then waded to their armpits in the water so as to get the gun as near the ship as then waded to their armpits in the water so as to get the gin as near the ship as possible and fired. The shot barely reached the sup, just falling inside the rail. The current was so strong that great difficulty was experienced in getting off the larger lines and selting up the gear. All being ready, at 11 A. M. the life-car was run off, and in forty-five minutes the crew of twenty-six men were safely landed. They were taken to the station and cared for.

The rescue of this crew, which seemed impossible, was made under the most trying circumstances, and serves to show the thorough efficiency, discipline, and place

NOVEL AND VALUABLE EXPRDIENT. The plan of placing the gun in the horse-cart and wading out in the surf is something never before resorted to in the service, and it is without doubt the expedient that saved the lives of the twenty-pedient that saved the lives of the twentysix men on this ship, as they could not have held out much longer having been driven into the tops by the sinking of the Superintendent Rich, of the life-saving service, informed the Treasury Department by telegraph to-day that there is no hope of saving the San Albano. He says that the vessel is under water and the cargo is being washed ashore.

ANOTHER RESCUE.

BALTIMORE, MD., February 27.—Captain Peter Van Gilder and the crew of the brigantine John Wesley, which was abandoned at sea Wednesday last about 25 miles E. N. E. of Caps Hatteras, arrived today on the Hav-Line steamer Virginia from Norfolk, Va. The John Wesley left Brunswick, Ga. February 18th for this port. Captain Van Gilder gives a graphic account of the disaster.

"Nothing worthy of note occurred on the voyage until February 21st, when, about ten miles south of Currituck light, a gale from the northeast was encountered which increased rapidly. On Monday the vessel began to leak. At 11 P. M. I ordered all hands to the pumps. We were then under double-resed main-sail, and the water gradually gained. At 11 P. M. Treesday the crew took to the ragging. The vessel was waterlogged, the sea making a clean sweep over her. All night long we were in this perilous position.

making a clean sweep over her. All hight long we were in this peritious position.

"At last the British steamship Clarissa Radeliff, Captain E. H. Dalton, from New Orleans for Rouen, oore down on us. The sea was running very high, and Captain Dalton, of the Radeliff, called for volunteers to go to the rescue of the Wesley's crew. Chief-Officer John Thomas and three of the crew responded. Immediately a boat was launched and proceeded on her life-saving mission. Owing to the heavy seas the rescue was attended with much danger. When within 15 feet of the Wesley Officer Thomas threw a line aboard the vessel and we were enabled, to abandon our sinking ship." Captain Van Gilder speaks in glowing terms of the kind treatment he and his crew received from the officers and crew of the Radeliff. The John Wesley was built in Baltimore in 1868 and belonged to Messrs, S. B. Martz & Co., of this city. of this city.

Have They Been Alding Garza?

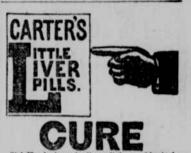

San Astonio, Tex., February 27.—Antonio Gonzales, the father-in-law of Caterino Garza, the revolutionary leader, arrived here this morning from his ranch in Neuces county. He was accompanied by Thomas Garza, a brother of the revolutionist. Both were immediately arrested. They are charged with violation of the United States neutrality law.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common acd increasing disease. Bood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and eures the most obstinate cases of dyspeptia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an heur after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an I nense amount of good. It gave me an appent, and my food relished and satisfied the craving a nad previously experienced. It relieved me of them faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. Paus, Watertown, Mass. N. B. Be sure to get only
